

Dear Friends,

Today, our pets live longer, healthier lives and enjoy an esteemed position in our households. They make us feel good; even after a tough day, we laugh and enjoy their antics. But pets also make us sad as we anticipate losing them. Meadow Hill's Buddies give you keepsakes to both celebrate your pets and deal with grief as they move through life's cycle.

What matters most to me with our pet products is that you are fully satisfied. This commitment includes workmanship, metals, engraving, and our customer service. Should you have any questions or wish to order additional pieces, please call or email. Our Service Center contact information is below. Thank you for your interest and consideration.

Your Buddie always close at hand

Living Pets

For your pets that are alive and well, the process begins with selecting a keepsake from the many options in this booklet. Prices can be found on our web site at www.meadowhillco.com. Aging or Deceased Pets

If your Buddie is nearing the end of life, you can capture a print using one of the methods described below. If your pet has just passed, you can enlist the help of your veterinarian or cremation provider.

Capturing Pet Prints

Three dimensional Buddies are crafted with prints from a variety of sources:

- Digital photographs - close ups taken without a flash
- Clay, plaster or resin molds
- Ink or barn/tempra paint

The quality of the finished keepsake is dependent on the quality of the prints provided.

*A special way to always remember
Your Best Buddie.*

The Process

Once Meadow Hill receives your prints, we scan them, create a wax model, and use the process known as lost wax casting to produce your one-of-a-kind piece. After polishing, each piece is further personalized with engraving. Engraving options are listed throughout this booklet.

Print Selection

From images of your pet's paw, nose, hoof, talon or other source, Meadow Hill's artisans select the print that captures the most character and detail to create your keepsake.
